

Q How does ShoreSummerRentals.com work?

A At Shore Summer Rentals, we've been facilitating direct bookings between hosts and guests since 2004, marking our 20th anniversary in 2024. By eliminating middleman fees and taxes, we offer genuine savings and exceptional results. Below is just one of the many testimonials from one of our hosts. Testimonials are a daily source of joy for us.

“ Shore Summer Rentals is an absolutely phenomenal vacation rental platform! I am a property owner and it's wonderful to have this alternative that doesn't charge our guests incredibly high booking fees. This saves our guests up to 25% when compared to Airbnb and Vrbo. I wish everyone chose to use Shore Summer Rentals. Regards, Steve

Q How do guests find your website?

A Shore Summer Rentals places significant emphasis on Search Engine Optimization (SEO), Google Ads, Facebook, Instagram, and other advertising channels to promote our listings. We also collaborate with various media outlets to maximize exposure for our website and listings. Furthermore, we conduct weekly reviews of all listings to ensure they are optimized effectively. With substantial investment in resources, we ensure that our listings reach a broad audience of qualified guests.

Q Do you check-in the guests?

A We do not oversee key management or tenant access. Our recommendation is to install a keyless door lock with the capability to change the code between guests. If this isn't feasible, installing a lockbox on your property and securely storing the keys inside is another option.

Q Do you come to our home to take photos?

A We leave that task to photography professionals. Instead, we can suggest real estate photographers who specialize in capturing high-quality images. Professional photos play a crucial role in the success of vacation rentals and typically come at a cost of under $200. It's a minimal investment that yields returns year after year, as listings featuring professional photos have proven to secure more rentals.

Q Do you collect payment from the guest?

A Guests make direct payments to our hosts, avoiding any intermediary fees. We do not facilitate rental transactions. As this falls under private rental arrangements, most guests are exempt from paying taxes/fees.

Q What payment types/terms do you recommend for bookings.

A I suggest requiring 50% upfront from guests to secure their booking, with the remaining balance due 30 days before their arrival. Recommended payment methods include credit card, cash, personal check, money order, certified bank check, or Zelle. For last-minute rentals, I recommend requesting 100% upfront payment in cash, money order, or certified bank check. We also offer an option for our hosts to accept credit card payments via Stripe Connect from your SSRNJ.com dashboard. View the details here. As more guests prefer using credit cards for their transactions, adapting to this trend is essential for staying competitive. NEVER send/receive monies by wire.

Q Do you offer rental liability insurance?

A Don't be misled by VRBO and Airbnb's scare tactics, which may lead you to believe that you need $1 million in liability insurance. Your existing home liability insurance should generally provide adequate coverage. However, I recommend contacting your insurance agent to verify the extent of your current personal liability insurance coverage, just to be certain.

Q How much does it cost to advertise on SSRNJ.com?

A Our hosts pay us a yearly fee, as low as $349. In contrast, hosts on VRBO and Airbnb pay more than that per booking, resulting in costs that can add up to several thousand dollars per year. Additionally, if you own fewer than 3 rental units, you do not have to charge our guests 11.625% in sales and occupancy tax. Those other sites also charge made up service fees on top of the taxes, which amount to up to 26% in addition to the rental rate. Consequently, guests are increasingly choosing us to book their shore rentals. View more information on the NJ tax exemption. Check out our new host offers.

Q Do you supply a Short Term Rental Agreement?

A Absolutely! We provide valuable tools to all active hosts to optimize rental bookings and save time and money. Our Owner's Tools encompass sample rental agreements, cleaning checklists, inventory lists, tips, and more, all included at no additional charge! Explore all the tools we offer.

NEW HOST FAQ'S

Q How do guests who book via a SSRNJ.com host save money?

A Renting from a host on Shore Summer Rentals is classified as a private booking because we do not manage any of the rental transaction funds. As previously stated, this exempts guests from paying the NJ sales/lodging tax (provided the host owns less than 3 rental units), as well as any additional service or booking fees.

Q Do I have to charge my guests NJ state and occupancy taxes?

A No. If you own fewer than 3 rental units, guests are not charged the 11.625% NJ sales and occupancy tax. Most hosts do not impose additional service fees. This results in savings of over 26% on a single booking, which could amount to several hundred to several thousand dollars, depending on the rental rate. Guests are increasingly informed and turning to us for vacation rentals. Below is a real-life example illustrating how much more hosts and guests pay to VRBO vs. SSRNJ.com.

STOP WASTING MONEY WITH VRBO/AIRBNB

Q Can you tell me how much I should charge for rent?

A While we can provide guidance, the host will ultimately determine the rental rate for your vacation rental. According to NJ Real Estate Commission regulations, we are not permitted to suggest rental pricing. Although, once your rental is listed on SSRNJ.com, we can assist you in comparing rental rates by providing comparables for rentals similar in size, age, amenities, distance to the beach, and more. Please be sure when comparing rental rates to you consider factors such as property size, age of the home, amenities, appliances, furniture, and proximity to the beach. Our hosts have the flexibility to adjust their pricing structure as needed. Generally, properties with updated kitchens, furniture, bedding, and attractive décor tend to perform well. We seek hosts who are proactive and take pride in maintaining their properties.

Q Do you offer damage insurance?

A We're not proponents of damage insurance. With nearly two decades in the vacation industry, we've observed that guests who have a security deposit held by the host are more likely to treat the property with care, as they're motivated to get their deposit back.

In contrast, when guests purchase a damage insurance policy for a fixed fee, knowing they won't receive a refund, they often don't exercise the same level of caution. They lack any personal investment in the property's condition.

Furthermore, many damage insurance claims are denied, and the primary beneficiaries are the insurance companies and the rental platforms offering the insurance, both of which receive substantial portions of every policy sold. Their interests may not align with yours. Additionally, hosts typically bear the burden of dealing with insurance companies in case of a claim, while guests are not held accountable.

I personally prefer holding security deposits for my rental tenants. If any portion of the security deposit needs to be retained, it's crucial to provide the guest with a detailed written explanation within 30 days of their departure, including supporting evidence such as photos and receipts. According to NJ law, if the property is returned in good condition, the deposit must be refunded to the guest within 30 days of departure.

Q Do you coordinate cleanings between tenants?

A Regardless of the platform you use (unless you opt for a full-service management company), the responsibility of hiring a cleaning service for rental turnovers falls on the host. It's essential to find a reliable cleaner who can provide photos between each tenant, particularly if there are damages or if the property is left excessively dirty. We'd gladly provide recommendations for cleaning services in your area.

Q Do you coordinate repairs?

A The host is responsible for addressing any issues that arise during your guest's stay. It's essential to find reliable help that can perform repairs, HVAC, plumbers, etc., to resolve any issues promptly and effectively.

Q How will guests find my home?

A We've developed robust advanced search filters that allow guests to find the perfect beach house rental based on their specific needs, including amenities, location, budget, availability, and more. As a rent-direct platform, guests can contact hosts directly, cutting out the middleman and saving both hosts and guests thousands of dollars per year.
